Dog Show Planned For May 21

This article is especially for young dog owners in Appomattox. We will have our dog show on Sunday afternoon,May 21st. This is the same show that was so popular and so many people attended. The entries number was exceptionally high for the first attempt. So get your dogs in shape and watch our news article for more information.

Our other big event was the Dog Training Classes. We plan to hold these classes during the summer months. If you want to get into this program, drop us a card or phone or drop by the office. We would like to get an idea of our class size and the number of people and pets to be involved. We will be giving you more information at 4-H Club meetings.

We wish to express special thanks to the sponsors and underwriters of our special events and activities with the 4-H Dog Project. Lawson Ford Motor Company will again sponsor our 1972 activities. Thanks Ford Folks!

The photo above shows Pam Moore and Mrs. Jonas of the Dog Owners Club of Lynchburg, Inc. Pam was the best trainer in the class that started with 22 dogs and owners. She is receiving the top award from the obedience Judge, during the groups' graduation exercises.

Founder Is Honored

The Delta Zeta chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, celebrated its seventh anniversary Sunday evening at the Rescue Squad building with a dinner and a gift for the chapter's founder, Mrs. Dana McDearmon, (left) presented by Mrs. Mary Bartelt (right) chapter president. The gift is a charm bracelet with a sorority charm made especially to mark each year of the chapter's existence. March, 1965 through 1972. Approximately 25 members and guests were present for the dinner.

Camper Exchange

An international camper exchange is being sponsored this summer by Camp Rochichi, the Lynchburg YMCA camp near Clarksville, in conjunction with the international Student Service.

The program which will last from July 2 through July 30, is open to all high school students.

Following a day-long orientation in New York City, the group will fly to Great Britian,where they will have another day of orientation at the Edwinburgh YMCA. They will be accompanied by an adult from the YMCA.

After a week of camping at the YMCA camp in Edinburgh, the campers will spend one week with a Scottish family in a cultural exchange program. The families will show the students local points of interest and will give them an opportunity to compare family life in the two countries.

The final week will be spent on a bus tour ending in London, where the campers will visit Shakespeare country, and Canterbury and York.

Total cost for the trip is $550. Persons interested may contact Carl Manfield at the Central YMCA in Lynchburg.

Students must meet three basic requirements. They must be high school students in the current school year, they must have a recommendation from their schools, and they must pass a physical examination.

In exchange, Camp Rochichi has agreed to accept 10 campers from Great Britian. The Central YMCA is now seeking families to house the British guests.

Grow Fruit On A Wire

by J. A. Smith,
Extension Agent

Have you ever considered "building" a living fence? Here's how to do it. It can be fun for the entire family, a source of food and a good study center of the youngsters.

The recent introduction of dwarf-type fruit trees has made possible a practical way to "build" or plant a tree fence. Apples and pears are ideal fruit to be considered for this purpose. Using trees to form fences isn't new. It's an old European technique called espalier. For many years fruit trees and ornamentals have been trained by judiciously pruning to cover walls, grow along building or form arbors.

These fences may be used to set-off or shield an unsightly area near the home. Some homeowners find them particykarly spkodyk wgeb dividing parts of the landscape.

One of the easiest ways to establish a tree fence is to set 8-foot posts 2 feet in the ground, spaced 12 feet apart. Be sure the wooden posts are treated for termite control. Dwarf fruit trees are then set 6 feet apart or 2 trees in each 12 foot section.

Next, you'll need four wires spaced at 18, 30, 42 and 54 inches. One way of doing this is to put an eye screw at each spacing on the end post and drill holes in remaining posts, wires are strung through the holes and attached to a turnbuckle at the last post. The turnbuckle is used to keep up the slack in the wire. The main function of the wire is to provide a trellis to which branches are tied for training.

All apple varieties are available on EM or EM VII rootstocks. The two most popular rootstocks are EM VII and MM 106. The MM rootstock is resistant to root aphids where EM is not.

Never use a seedling or standard rootstock. The task of keeping it within the confined area is difficult, if not impossible.

Apple varieties should be selected by uses and taste preference of the family. However, there are many novel ways of preparing the planting. For example, 2 trees of Red Delicious in 1 section of the fence, and 2 trees of Golden Delicious in the next. This would be a colorful display of fruit in the fall. A more desirable arrangement may start with a variety that ripens in mid-July and thereafter a sequence of varieties based on ripening dates to early November.

The important consideration with apples is to have at least one good pollinator for each 8 to 10 trees. For this task Golden Delicious is hard to beat. For pears, select at least two varieties.

If pears are used in part or for the entire arrangement,select varieties based on dessert quality, freedom of grit cells and most important, resistance to fire blight.

Now is a good time to get your fence started. The care required for the fence is at least one annual pruning and the usual spray program for insect and diseases.

Just think! No ladder is needed for harvesting or pruning because tree height is limited to 6 feet.

For additional details, ask for a copy of An Apple Fence, Circular 1000, available at the County Extension Office.

It's late winter and time for pruning the apple tree. A year's growth should be 12-14 inches. The new growth is cut back to 2 inches. Never hesitate to prune at any time the need is apparent.

Pruning is complete. Note the 8 arms that have been trained along the wires. It takes four years to complete the four sets of arms. When mature, a tree should produce one bushel of desirable fruit.

In full foliage and ready to produce a supply of tasty fruit. High quality trees like this come from one year-old "whips" of the largest diameter available. These trees are usually less expensive, but are easier to get survival.

Torrence Wins FFA Contest

James Torrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Torrence, of Route 2, Appomattox, was the winner of the annual Appomattox County FFA Chapter public speaking contest held recently. James used as his subject "Our Vital Factors of Survival."

Other contestants in the chapter contest were Emmitt Knight and Brent Washburn.

$2.1 MILLION
First Colony Telephone Company will spend in excess of 2.1 million dollars, to meet the increasing demand for telephone service. The money will be used to maintain, improve and expand buildings, equipment and lines used to provide services for its customers this year.
Approximately $420,000 of this amount will be used for station equipment such as telephones, key systems, private branch exchanges, teletype and data sets, and other station connection materials.
About $680,000 will be used to improve and add additional switching equipment and toll circuits in the 12 exchanges operated by the company. Almost half of its expenditures of $1,070,000 will be used in outside plant construction to improve existing and provide additional cables and lines to existing and new customers.
